

Reading Horizons at Home

Ages 10–Adult

A breakthrough interactive reading program has been specifically developed for helping older learners who struggle with reading skills. Reading Horizons has been used at High Schools and Community Colleges across the country for over twenty-six-years and is now available for use at home for a dramatically reduced price. This research based program increases the average students reading ability by three to five grade levels.

*Reading Horizons can be taught using direct instruction, individualized computer software, or a combination of both approaches.

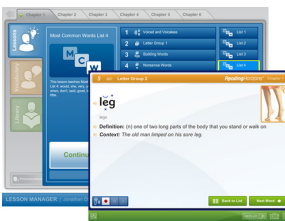

Reading Horizons v5 Computer Software

The computer software is designed for independent learning that allows 1 student to go at their own pace and be taught in their individual learning style. This computer software is an implementation of the Discover Intensive Phonics for Yourself method. It consists of 81 interactive lessons starting at the basic alphabet sounds and moving quickly to multi-syllable words. Performance scores are available to read and print. Reference Materials with software purchase include Installation and Operating manual and the Student Workbook ($30 value), an interactive guide to provide additional practice. We also offer FREE access to our Online Workshop ($99.00 value!)
